Float Title; Chairman Selected

"Girl Of The Golden West" To Represent City In Pageant—Pratt Chairman

"The Girl of the Golden West." This will be the subject of the city's float in the New Year's Tournament of Roses parade in Pasadena.

After viewing an elaborate water-color sketch of the proposed float by Alfred James Dewey, who was appointed by the float committee last week to draw up a tentative design, the committee, meeting Tuesday afternoon at the city hall, accepted Dewey's design unanimously.

An entry blank, naming "The Girl of the Golden West" as the subject of Sierra Madre's entry in the Crown City's 49th annual New Year's Day spectacle, was forwarded yesterday to Rose Tournament officials.

Simultaneously with adoption of the city's 1938 float theme, chairmanship of the float committee was unanimously conferred on City Clerk Waverly E. Pratt.

Selection of Pratt as chairman was made by a three-man committee appointed last week, comprising R. C. Lewis, Chamber of Commerce president; Clarence C. Huntsinger, and L. R. Goshorn, editor and publisher of the NEWS.

Coincidentally with the selection of the title, "The Girl of the Golden West," comes the announcement that David Belasco's famous melodrama of the same name will be revived at the Pasadena Community Playhouse next July 26. Theatre-goers will recall that the leading character of the play was created by Blanche Bates, now the wife of George Creel, nationally known magazine writer.

Belasco's inspiration for "The Girl of the Golden West," one of the most beloved melodramas of the American stage of a generation ago, is said to have been drawn from actual happenings related to him in his youthful days by his father.

Pair Nearing Century Mark Celebrate Birthdays Together As Four Generations Gather

The interesting Hauk home at 682 Brookside Lane was the scene on Sunday of a happy family gathering, honoring the joint June birthdays of Dio A. Hauk, 91, and Mrs. Hauk, 86, who are joyfully nearing the century mark together.

An informal dinner was served to four generations of the family at 3 o'clock on a table arranged by Mr. Hauk in his motif of nature's own decorations. Golden lantana flower heads and asparagus ferns formed the figures 1846 and 1851 on either side of the centerpiece topped by a fruit cake, three stories high and her husband's favorite, made by Mrs. Hauk for the occasion.

Both the Hauks are surprisingly well and give promise of many more happy years of married life. Mr. Hauk reads without the aid of glasses and each day sees him busily engaged in some work of interest. Last year his biography, done in long hand and illustrated with pen and ink sketches, was completed. This year his genius has turned to wood carvings in statuary. His latest accomplishment is the hand-blocked floral designs done on Mrs. Hauk's white birthday gown. A special delight to the busy man this week was the shower of remembrances in cards, letters and flowers from friends and absent members of the family for Father's Day.

Among the Sunday guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hauk and son Robert of Pasadena, their daughter, Mrs. Walter Thompson, Mr. Thompson and children, Barbara and Nancy, of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs .Arthur Von Gerichton and son Jerry, La Crescenta; Mr. and Mrs. Mark Clark of Beverly Hills, their daughters Janice and Carol Strock and their son, Wallace Strock.

To Spend Vacations Barnstorming In The Air

A barnstorming tour of the Eastern States in an air plane is the novel way in which Jim Dewey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred James Dewey, is going to pass his summer vacation this year.

The flying Sierra Madrean, in company with five well-known Pasadenans, took off from Alhambra airport Tuesday for New York City.

The group departed in two planes, a two-seater Monocoupe and a four-seater Stinson. The four-seater is one of Dewey's own planes.

In the Monocoupe were Dewey and Harold Foote, Pasadena dental laboratory technician. In the other place were Harry Fromm, George Quadran, Carl Buerkman and Harlan Gorreal, all of whom learned to fly under Dewey's tutelage.

The five Pasadenans, who will attend a national dental conference at Atlantic City, paid Dewey $500 for the trip.

Following the close of the convention, they will spend some time flying around the East.

Prize Play Rules Are Announced

Wistaria Drama Contest Judges Selected— Mrs. Marr Is Registrar

Details of rules governing the Wistaria Association's $25 one-act play contest were announced yesterday.

As the contest is wide open with no restrictions it is likely that the committee will be flooded with manuscripts, so for this reason the drama reading committee, which includes Mr. and Mrs. H. A. N. Addis and Mrs. E. G. Everett, will wade through the submitted manuscripts and select the best ten, which will simplify the work of the out of town judges, who will be named later and whose selection of the prize winner will be final.

Mrs. Josephine E. Marr, 204 West Sierra Madre Blvd., the registrar, will be the first to see the manuscripts. She is to delete the name of the author and substitute a number so that the committee will get no inkling as to the identity of the author. She in turn passes on the manuscripts to the reading committee. Mrs. C. A. Allen requests that persons who plan to enter the contest send their literary efforts to Mrs. Marr as soon as possible.

Following are the rules of the contest:

The contest is open to any one wishing to compete.

Plays must be submitted on or before August 1, 1937.

A prize of $25 will be awarded to the one who submits the winning play.

There wil be three judgse who will not submit manuscripts.

The commitee reserves the right to present other plays than the winning play, if in the opinion of the judges there are other plays worthy of presentation.

Plays not chosen for presentation will be returned to the writer if accompanied by a self addressed envelope.

Name and address of writer should accompany manuscript but should not be written on the manuscript. This is important.

All manuscripts should be typewritten on one side of the paper only.

Awards will be made early in September.

Only one play can be submitted by the same author.

Surprise Miss Lewis As She Departs

The departure of Miss Jean Lewis for a summer in the East and in Europe was incentive enough for 30 or more of her UCLA friends to meet at the station and bid her "Good luck and bon voyage" and shower her with gifts and flowers. The group was clever in arranging for a three-piece Hawaiian orchestra to be present when Miss Jean entereher her stateroom, where later they gathered and sang familiar Hawaiian melodies. Carnival Of Chessmen Brings 400

Entrants From 30 Cities Participate In Annual Morphy Day Event

Imagine 125 chess games going at the same time!

Sounds like a college professor's dream of Heaven, doesn't it?

Well, that's exactly what took place under Sierra Madre city park's eucalyptus trees Saturday, when more than 400 chess enthusiasts representing 30 cities and coming from a radius of 50 to 60 miles put on their thinking caps and squared off for a total of 15 hours of informal matches and special exhibitions.

The event was Sierra Madre's eighth annual Morphy Day carnival, honoring this year the centennial of the birth of Paul Morphy, patron saint of chess experts and "dubs" alike the world over.

Herman Steiner, former New York state and present California state champion, won the feature event of the day, the rapid transit 10-second-a-move tourney, which carries with it an original drawing by Charles Broughton, Pasadena artist and nationally-famed chess expert.

Winning four out of four games, Mrs. Blanche C. Knoll placed first in the women's tourney, a feature new to Morphy Day programs. Mrs. Alma Wolff, defeated once, placed second.

Further to prove that chess skill is no mere masculine prerogative, a simultaneous exhibition was staged by Miss Vieve Mae Hines, women's chess champion of California.

Irving Spiro, former Ohio state champion and chess editor, won a game and drew one in the blindfold exhibition match.

E. B. Elliot, former wester champion, conducted the simultaneous play, while Broughton timed and directed the rapid-transit games.

Chairman Marcus A. Woodward and Steiner welcomed the guests.

Sponsors of the affair were city officials, the Chamber of Commerce and the Southern California Chess League.

OUR LIBRARY

As the time is now drawing near for the library board to submit is annual estimate of budgetary needs to the city council, the NEWS considers this a most appropriate occasion to pay its respects to both the board itself and the venerable institution it represents. The estimate, as usual, will be modest. Under the wise and enlightened management of E. D. Burbank, chairman of the Library's finance committee, we are ready to affirm with the utmost confidence that no department of Sierra Madre's public business has a more efficient stewardship. And the intangible returns on this investment of one small part of the city's income are, of course, beyond computation.

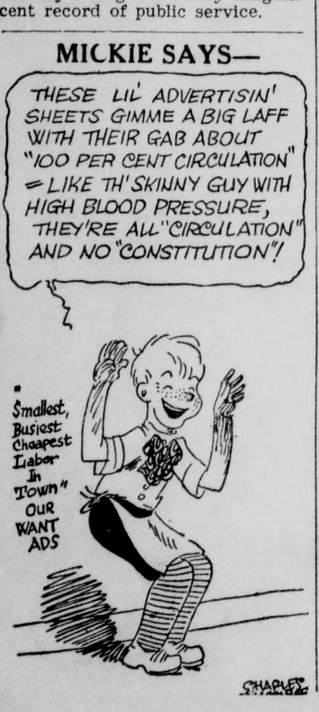

Sierra Madre, to an extraordinary degree, is a city of readers .In this respect, as a matter of actual statistics, it is among the leaders, on a per capita rating, not only in California but throughout the nation. Nor is this due solely to the special character of our population. It is preeminently due to the excellence of the library itself and the devotion of all those connected with its skilled and pleasant management.

This management, it should be recognized, has often been carried on—brilliantly and cheerfully—under a distressing handicap. Funds have necessarily been curtailed. Equipment and supplies have been at a minimum, salaries reduced, every dollar has been eked out to the utmost in order that Sierra Madre night be served in a manner worthy the high and well-nigh universal requirements of our citizens. Yet through all the years of the depression—and before and since—the library has carried on in a way to stir our civic pride and keep alive our faith in public institutions.

In this connection, it must have been with mixed feelings that members of our library board read of an inspection now being made of the Monrovia library with a view to giving that institution a better building. For years the housing of our own Library, older by far than that of the Monrovia institution, has verged on a public disgrace. Built more than a half-century ago, through the munificence of a handful of pioneers, the disgrace would have been actual were it not for a certain affection that has, so to speak, glorified this old building—given it the halo that comes of long acquaintance, a heartfelt gratefulness, the memory of happy hours.

Nevertheless, it is to be hoped that this gratitude, this affection, will, one of these days in a time not too remote, inspire us to find the means to give our venerable friend a new and larger home—adequate, beautiful, an expression in every way of our Library's long and really magnificent record of public service.

MICKIE SAYS—

The.... Watch Tower

By Perley Poore Sheehan

WE love the line—Wordsworth wrote it: "Authentic tidings of invisible things!" William James quotes it in his essay entitled "On a Certain Blindness in Human Beings." The blindness, really, of those who can't see the wonder all about them. In people (themselves included). In everything. It's a noble essay. You'll find it in a little book—it's in our Library—called "On Some of Life's Ideals."

ODDLY enough, we got to reading it—as if by accident, so to speak. Just happened to pick it up. But we'd barely opened it—how shall we put this so as not to sound too crazy?— barely opened it before we felt as if it had been handed to us by some unseen friend. Here was —"authentic tidings of invisible things." As there is, of course, in practically everything Professor James ever wrote— a quality in him to arouse, every now and then, what he himself calls "this mystic sense of hidden meaning."

HARD going? Well, it isn't easy to explain. But a lady —whom we think the world and all of—had been telling us about a teacher. We should say, perhaps, a Master. A Hindu. After cursive discussion of the Great White Brotherhood and related themes. A Master she thought most highly of. Rightly, we feel we ought to add. But who lived—incarnate, be it understood —at a distance from Sierra Madre; so that ,personally, we felt no slightest need or inclination—no slightest desire at all—to go and find him.

WHY? Certainly not because Masters do not interest us. For years and years they have been one of the controlling interests of our life. We've just now been reading another book —also from the Library—called "A Search in Secret India." By Paul Brunton. No phoney. Brunton's real. We've been reading books along this same line—very few of them better than the present one— for the past 30 years at least. Including all of Mme. Blavatsky's. All of Mme. Besant's. And sundry. Hundreds of them, we're sure. Books on occultism. In French. In English. Books on Thibet. Writings by Manly Hall.

INCIDENTALLY, we did leave our home once to meet someone whom we'd been instructed to believe in as a Master—as "the Perfect Master," so he was heralded; and likewise so he called himself: Sadguru — Shri Sadguru Meher Baba. "Sadguru" means "perfect master." We went up from New York to Croton-on-the-Hudson to see him—all alone, as a priceless privilege; hopefully and unconvinced, yet with a sort of clamped-on reverence. And came back sad—our armor shattered.

NO. Brother. Sister. It's our belief—based on, oh, a million "authentic tidings of invisible things"—that you don't really have to go anywhere to find your Master. Or, if you do, He Himself will let you know. And the chances are, even so, it'll just sort of happen. Right here in Sierra Madre—as easily as in the most God-awful pass of the Himalaya. While you are watering a garden or airing a dog. He himself may be doing that. He may even be disguised—as a woman. In any case, friendly, unpretentious, most natural. No beard. No turban.

ONLY afterward will you suspect why there is this strange elation in your heart, the feeling that something august has come into your life. Hear Wordsworth, as quoted by William James in that little book we started out to write about—after what Professor James refers to as one of the poet's gleaming moments:

Ah! need I say dear Friend, that to the brim
My heart was full; I made no vows, but vows
Were then made for me; bond unknown to me
Was given, that I should be, else sinning greatly,
A dedicated Spirit. On I walked,
In thankful blessedness, which yet survives.

WHAT are your own chances for some such gleaming moment? Excellent! Impending! Let's take a quotation from that Brunton book we mentioned —not the author's own words, the words of a greater than he: "Man is grandly related. A greater Being suckled him than his mother . . . If today the busy world calls him and he gives himself up to it, there are those who have not forgotten his oath and he shall be reminded of it at the appropriate hour . . . (by) the voice of a hidden, recondite and mysterious Being who inhabits his center, who is—his own Ancient Self." The italics are ours. For lo, your real, real Master—He is with you always.

LEGISLATURE BACKS AWAY FROM DICTATORSHIP

By RALPH H. TAYLOR
(Executive Secretary, Agricultural Council of California)

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article is the third in a series by Ralph H. Taylor, farmer leader and noted commentator, reviewing the state legislative session just ended.)

THE common denominator of both Communism and Fascism, regardless of how they differ in other respects, is subjugation of the individual to the state—the substitution of government dictation for individual enterprise and personal freedom!

In Communist Russia— and in Fascist Italy and Germany—the business man, the farmer and the workers are all equally subservient to the direction of the master state. Organized labor and capital take their orders from the same master, the central government. Every economic activity of the individual is subject to state control. And to enforce this economic servitude, both Communism and Fascism likewise destroy political freedom—the right of self-rule!

Keeping in mind this common characteristic of dictatorial government—and also keeping clearly in view that the basic principle of American government is self-determination and a maximum of economic and political freedom for the individual citizen—regulatory acts of the 1937 State Legislature have added significance and fundamental importance. The same applies to acts now pending in Congress. All regulation, to be sure, is not Fascism or Communism, but extreme regulation is the hall-mark of both—and extreme regulation is the product of a series of acts, rather than a single radical departure.

At the outset, it should be stated that the California Legislature, after numerous excursions up blind roads and dark alleys, finally rejected most of the extreme, regulatory acts before it. But the pressure of public opinion, finally aroused, had much to do with the outcome.

Here are some of the dangerous and extreme bills killed in Sacramento:

Innumerable licensing acts which would have drastically curbed the right of the individual to repair his own fence, drive his own truck, select his own employees and live his own life.

Several one-sided labor relations acts which would have set up "unfair trade practices" for all employers, including farmers, but none for workers, placing the employer at the mercy of unscrupulous agitators.

Anti-lobying bills which would have tied the hands of the average citizen, or civic or public organizations, seeking to make known their desires to their chosen repserentatives, but which would have left the door wide open for the 'hotel suite lobbyists" with unlimited expense accounts.

Similar bills which would have restricted the right of the individual citizen to participate in campaigns for or against measures on the ballot, or to organize in support of the candidates of his choice, or against office-holders with whose services he was displeased.

A series of 30-hour week bills, "six hour days with eight hours pay," etc., which, by going to extremes, would have destroyed employment, instead of increasing it.

"Make-work" bills of varying types, forcing employers to hire extra workers whether needed or not.

Radical unemployment insurance proposals, which ignored the fact that someone has to foot the bill for governmental experiments —and that the bill-footing-class will soon be on relief, too, unless a halt is called.

And scores of measures, too numerous to mention, regulating individual businesses to the point where it would have been cheaper to quit and go to work for someone else.

(Next Week: "Is it Legal?—New 'Don'ts' for the Individwal.")

Case And Comment

By Chas. B. Showalter

THE revolution is on. The average reader will ask, "What revolution?"— but it is far from pertinent to ask, "whose revolution."

Tremendously opposing forces are at work, at present in unison, but they must shortly diverge. Mr. Roosevelt is playing Mr. Lewis' hand, Mr. Lewis is playing Mr. Roosevelt's hand. The result will not be a New Deal, but a fake deal, because the cards are stacked.

Passing events unmistakably reveal the strategy and the purpose of each. Mr. Lewis, through his C.I.O., and affiliated unions proposes to control all business and industry, and when they become chaotic, as they surely will, then the workers will take them over as the rightful owners and managers, with Mr. Lewis as a matter of course, at the top, thereby repeating the Russian experiment. In other words, Mr. Lewis is driving for a dictatorhsip of the workers, with Mr. Lewis the real dictator.

These conclusions are inescapable, since strike after strike has been called in which there was no controversy as to wages, hours, or working conditions, but merely for the purpose of forcing industry to submit to union control. Any extra-legal action is revolutionary, and the C.I.O. is entirely without the law. They forced a supine Congress to pass the Wagner act, supposedly in the sole interest of labor and against industry, and then proceeded to ignore its provisions. Their entire program is based on lawlessness, law evasion and coercion. The workers, themselves, have no choice in the matter but are forced to go along with the union at the peril of their jobs or their lives.

Case and Comment has confirmed that statement by interviews with workers in various industries.

This in free America! And to this extent the revolution has already succeeded. And one would need to be very simple minded, indeed ,to think it could have gone so far, without the active cooperation and support of Mr. Roosevelt. The political alliance of the President of the United States with America's Number One Racketeer is the most shameful episode in all our political history. Strikers violating the law are assured the President is with them, and that four departments of the government are fighting for them. Mr. Roosevelt does not repudiate their claims nor defend his policy. No defense would be possible.

Mr. Roosevelt knows precisely what he is doing. When labor and industry fall into anarchy, when collapse of the social structure seems imminent, with confusion piled on confusion, and men know not where to turn, Mr. Roosevelt can proclaim himself dictator, as the savior of his country. Then we will have two dictators and it will be another problem to decide who will be the Kerensky.

It will be recalled that the first edition of the brain trust airily proclaimed the revolution and suggested Mr. Roosevelt in the role of Kerensky. They may have been prophetic.

This is the state of affairs to which our experiment in socialism and communism has brought us. And there is only one way out, and that is a return to sanity, and a reassertion of the common sense of the great majority who are now so apathetic and unconcerned. All other roads lead to violence, blood shed, and complete loss of liberty. Already men have been killed and wounded because of the egotistic ambition of so-called leaders.

No one person, nor minority group can climb to dominence in this great nation or in any natio except over the dead bodies of their fellow citizens. Nor can they maintain themselves there except by a policy of murder and rapine. Witness Russia. Stalin must send a dozen or so prominent citizens to the firing squad each morning before breakfast in order to bolster up his courage and satisfy his ego. To the answer, "we wouldn't do it that way here," must be stated, despotism knows no nationality.

The vast majority of the population of the United States wishes to retain our country as it is. They know full well that for 300 years our system has bred patience, tolerance, kindliness, good will, love for our neighbors and our fellow men, interest in his welfare as well as our own, and they know also that dictatorships are maintained only by selfish ambition, hate, ill will, slavery, death.

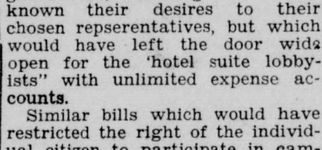

We shall hold to the unshakable conviction that the democratic philosophy as a mode of thinking will lead mankind into a nobler way of life. Perhaps this philosophy has sometimes worked imperfectly, but, what other philosophy has ever endowed the individual with so much dignity? And what other philosophy has ever held a continent for a century and a half, bound by reasoned self-interest and not by force?

Gaddin' Around
BILL PEET

ONE good look at his features a few words of conversation and you had him pegged correctly, just as if "Middle West" had been written across his broad forehead—yes he came to Sierra Madre to visit relatives —it was his first trip to California and his one great desire was to catch glimpse of the Pacific Ocean.

"I'd like to see the ocean and do some fishin', jus' so I could tell the folks back home about it" he confided in one of his kinfolk.

The visitor was told that he would get what he wanted and see enough to furnish conversation back home, for some weeks to come.

"If I was you," the Sierra Madre cousin remarked "I would pass up the beaches near by and point your fliver towards San Diego, keep going until you reach that city where you will see an ocean playground second to none in this part of the United States. There you can try your hand at deep sea fishing where yellow tail, tuna and marlin abound, the best fishing grounds are near the Coronado islands, 18 miles off shore.

"You will also see two silver strands of shining beaches—surf bathing on one side of the strand and still water for boating or aquaplaning on the other.

"The beaches along the shores of San Diego are marvelous. Man has created here a great ocean playground. He has constructed swimming pools, amusement centers, yachting and boating facilities and fishing piers. Accomodations for every purse and requirement, ranging from tent cities to luxurious hotels, await the visitor, thats the place to go my friend, start for San Diego and don't stop 'till you get there."

The foregoing sounds as if it had been ripped from a folder sent out by the San Diego Chamber of Commerce (if they have one) but it is all true, as any person who has been there will attest.

Selwyn Myers brilliant young actor and Sierra Madre boy who appeared before an appreciative hometown audience at the Wistaria Gardens on Saturday night also delivered his maiden impromtu speech at a previous dinner meeting of the committee to plan for the Wistaria Associations' one act play.

Mrs. C. A. Allen, introduced Selwyn in a most complimentary manner and he responded briefly, thanking the people of Sierra Madre for their interest and concluding with "I hope that I will prove a credit to this city in my chosen career, I will certainly do my very best."

Simply spoken but every word rang true and the dinner guests were impressed.

When you walk through a dark room you naturally slow up?

You should do the same thing when driving your car around a curve or over a hill crest.

The Automobile Club of Southern California offers the following advice on curves and hills.

"It is far better to trail patiently for half a mile or so, than to lose patience, swing out to pass and end up in a ditch."

If this rule was observed there would be fewer accidents on our highways.

The untimely death of Officer Harlan Gerlach caused genuine sorrow in the hearts of Sierra Madre's youngsters, who considered him their real friend. He often overlooked their pranks that nearly bordered on lawlessness and they always listened to his words of friendly advice. One of the kids about town called at THE NEWS office the day after Gerlach had passed away to inquire about him, and when told the sad news, tears glistened in his eyes as he said, "Too bad—he was one swell guy."

TOWN PICKUPS

The three "Musketeers" assemble each afternoon under the pepper tree at the trolley station and settle all problems of the moment, according to Joe Sadler . . . Bert Dane, the candy man, points with pride to the fact that his ancestors fought Indians back in the days when Minnesota was a frontier and boasted of only a few hamlets . . . Lloyd Welch the feed store man, was initiated this week into the Sierra Madre post, American Legion. He served in the Coast artillery during war times . . . Chess tourney on Morphy day here brought out the brilliant minds. You've got to have something behind and above the ears to become a good chess player . . . "Special Delivery," our dependable puddle jumper has been laid up with a fractured rod . . . it's still a rattling good car . . . I have a letter from a friend in San Diego who writes that the yucca forests are blooming prettily around Jacumba in the mountains and along the coast highway south of Rosarita Beach in Old Mexico . . . Motor down and see them before they fade, the trip will be worth while . . . Judge Neale is out and about again .Glad to see you Judge. The fish will soon hear the news . . . Don't forget the Pat West show in the high school auditorium tomorrow night.

George Spray, president of the Los Gatos Nudist Colony, says "The strip tease is an insult to true nudism!"

Leslie Howard, the actor, says of women—"I perfer the mothering type of woman to the clinging vine type. Most men do. Even Clark Gable."

One interesting phase of the Wally-Windsor romance which has seemingly attracted little attention is the lady's age. Wally, at 41, has the world by the ears, and an ex-king, 43, dojng emotional handsprings. Maybe there's something in this idea that "Life begins at 40!"

What do taxes mean in terms of employment? A recent survey has answered this question as far as the steel industry is concerned. Last year taxes paid in this industry were equivalent to a whole year's salary for 74,500 employees. The tax bill of $105,-850,000 was equal to $169 for each worker on the payrolls during the year. In 1935 the tax bill was equal to $134 per employee.

It will cost Los Angeles County taxpayers $23,503 during the next fiscal year to send county officials and employees on trips for public business according to the county auditor. Included in the travel costs will be $7677 for meals and $15,824 for transportation. The sheriff and the probation department will spend $4500 each in their trips around the state and nation. The district attorney expects to spend $1800, while the supervisors estimated their travel costs at $500.

Ingenious Nevada, seeking added state revenues, has found a new and presumably legal way to cash in on the universal desire to get something for nothing. Articles of incorporation were filed the other day at Carson City for an organization which will conduct a huge football pool this fall, with a capital prize of $100,000. Sop to the state is a new children's hospital in Reno, a project which will receive ten per cent of the corporation's receipts. National lotteries have long been in vogue throughout Europe, and it may be that Nevada is taking the first step along the road to government participation in gambling, although legislators will tell you most Americans would never sanction the legalizing of an admitted evil. But, as the president of the new corporation explained, the pool isn't a lottery and it isn't a sweepstakes, so it really isn't gambling. Shrewd, these Nevadans.

FIRE FLAMES

By One of The Boys

THERE isn't anything that will overcome the thought of our recent loss, the passing of Harlen Gerlach. He did not have to die to have good things said about him. We all loved him, just as did the people who met him about the city. He was noted for his always sunny disposition. We need not tell this to those who knew him.

No matter how tired he may have been, it never seemed too much trouble to Harlen to do something for someone. Perhaps some of us imposed on his good nature. He could always be relied on when a man was needed in the fire and police work in an emergency.

During his illness, the children of the city proved that they loved him. We men of the department were constantly asked by them as to Harlen's condition. "Swell guy," they would say and "gee, we hope he gets well."

We will miss him here in the police station and firemen's room. We are proud to have been his "Buddy" and to call him "Buddy."

Technique Of Short Story Writing Theme Of Meeting

"Fiction Technique — with Especial Stress on the Writing of Short Stories" will be the topic at the Foothill Literary Afternoon at the Sierra Madre Woman's Club next Thursday at 2 p.m.

The speaker on July 1 will be Noureddin Addis, contributor of many short stories to many widely varying magazines as well as a successful novelist. Various of his short stories have been starred by O'Brien, which is the short story writers' equivalent of being elected to the French Academy or winning gold medals. He has won prizes in the poetry field, too, including first prize in the Wistaria contest, and in the essay domain as well. He has been one of the most regular attendants at these splendidly attended review, criticism and discussion groups conducted by Lucia Trent and Ralph Cheyney. More than thirty-five participated last month when Perley Poore Sheehan was the chief speaker—and a no less extensive turn-out is expected for the popular Sierra Madrean who will star next Thursday.

The First Outdoor Poetry School in the Southwest, which the Cheyneys are conducting each Thursday in the beautiful, shady garden of Mrs. Mary Ward, 109 East Grand View avenue, will meet at 8 p.m. on July 1 instead of at the usual hour of 2 p.m. This group differs from the meetings at the Woman's clubhouse on the first Thursday of each month by specializing intensively on poetry.

Mrs. Sarah M. Butler, 387 Ramona has as her house guest for several days, Mrs. T. D. Hatchell of Houston, Tex.

STAGE HUGE SPECTACLE

Thirteenth Annual Pasadena Rose Bowl Fireworks Show and Four-Ring Circus this year set for Monday Evening, July 5, with entertainment ranging from dog and pony show to the largest series of fireworks set pieces ever shown in Bowl.

Pasadena firemen in staging their 13th annual Fourth of July fireworks show and circus in the Rose Bowl, this time have purchased as a climax what is said to be the biggest fireworks set piece ever built for such an occasion. The piece is 165 feet wide. It shows a Moorish fort and castle being bombarded from the sea by two Spanish Galleons. The ships are more than twenty feet high each and every bit of rigging is outlined in fireworks. The ships have fireworks guns which shoot at the fort and the fireworks guns in the fort shoot back at the boats.

There are eight big set pieces in addition to hundreds of aerial rockets, gigantic pinwheels, sunbursts and the usual run of spectacular fire pieces.

The circus comes before the fireworks and those attending should get to the Rose Bowl not later than 7:30 p.m. There is free, protected parking for all autos immediately around the Rose Bowl where there is space for 20,000 machines.

STAGE HUGE SPECTACLE

Thirteenth Annual Pasadena Rose Bowl Fireworks Show and Four-Ring Circus this year set for Monday Evening, July 5, with entertainment ranging from dog and pony show to the largest series of fireworks set pieces ever shown in Bowl.

Pasadena firemen in staging their 13th annual Fourth of July fireworks show and circus in the Rose Bowl, this time have purchased as a climax what is said to be the biggest fireworks set piece ever built for such an occasion. The piece is 165 feet wide. It shows a Moorish fort and castle being bombarded from the sea by two Spanish Galleons. The ships are more than twenty feet high each and every bit of rigging is outlined in fireworks. The ships have fireworks guns which shoot at the fort and the fireworks guns in the fort shoot back at the boats.

There are eight big set pieces in addition to hundreds of aerial rockets, gigantic pinwheels, sunbursts and the usual run of spectacular fire pieces.

The circus comes before the fireworks and those attending should get to the Rose Bowl not later than 7:30 p.m. There is free, protected parking for all autos immediately around the Rose Bowl where there is space for 20,000 machines.

Benefit Will Be Notable Affair

More than fifteen outstanding novelty acts, to be presented by a galaxy of stage and screen stars, will make up the mammoth Children's Home benefit show which the Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring tomorrow night at the public school auditorium.

Master of ceremonies will be Leo Carillo, famed screen actor and sportsman.

There are still a number of good tickets available, which may be secured from Assistant City Manager Dan Lewis at the City hall.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. sharp.

It will cost Los Angeles County taxpayers $23,503 during the next fiscal year to send county officials and employees on trips for public business according to the county auditor. Included in the travel costs will be $7677 for meals and $15,824 for transportation. The sheriff and the probation department will spend $4500 each in their trips around the state and nation. Technique Of Short Story Writing Theme Of Meeting

"Fiction Technique — with Especial Stress on the Writing of Short Stories" will be the topic at the Foothill Literary Afternoon at the Sierra Madre Woman's Club next Thursday at 2 p.m.

The speaker on July 1 will be Noureddin Addis, contributor of many short stories to many widely varying magazines as well as a successful novelist. Various of his short stories have been starred by O'Brien, which is the short story writers' equivalent of being elected to the French Academy or winning gold medals. He has won prizes in the poetry field, too, including first prize in the Wistaria contest, and in the essay domain as well. He has been one of the most regular attendants at these splendidly attended review, criticism and discussion groups conducted by Lucia Trent and Ralph Cheyney. More than thirty-five participated last month when Perley Poore Sheehan was the chief speaker—and a no less extensive turn-out is expected for the popular Sierra Madrean who will star next Thursday.

The First Outdoor Poetry School in the Southwest, which the Cheyneys are conducting each Thursday in the beautiful, shady garden of Mrs. Mary Ward, 109 East Grand View avenue, will meet at 8 p.m. on July 1 instead of at the usual hour of 2 p.m. This group differs from the meetings at the Woman's clubhouse on the first Thursday of each month by specializing intensively on poetry.

FIRE FLAMES

By One of The Boys

THERE isn't anything that will overcome the thought of our recent loss, the passing of Harlen Gerlach. He did not have to die to have good things said about him. We all loved him, just as did the people who met him about the city. He was noted for his always sunny disposition. We need not tell this to those who knew him.

No matter how tired he may have been, it never seemed too much trouble to Harlen to do something for someone. Perhaps some of us imposed on his good nature. He could always be relied on when a man was needed in the fire and police work in an emergency.

During his illness, the children of the city proved that they loved him. We men of the department were constantly asked by them as to Harlen's condition. "Swell guy," they would say and "gee, we hope he gets well."

We will miss him here in the police station and firemen's room. We are proud to have been his "Buddy" and to call him "Buddy."
